On one Sunday last September, the 5th-8th grade boys had the Zchus to hear from Niza and Gilad Shoham, the parents of hostage, Tal Shoham. Baruch Hashem, Tal Shoham is scheduled to be released this week. May we continue to daven that B'Ezras Hashem all of our hostages will return home soon.

BOYSnews*

European explorers had it rough. They spent months traveling on crowded, oftentimes smelly ships, across the ocean. And when they found land, they weren't that much better off. They continued living on the ship while they scrounged for resources to build their homes. Communicating with the kings and queens who sponsored their journeys also wasn't easy. They had to make ink out of berries they foraged, as well as use feathers for quills. All of which is why Mrs. Malkin's 5th grade boys experimented with homemade ink and goose feathers themselves. Consensus? It's much more laborious than whipping out a Bic pen.

4TH GRADE GIRLS news

After returning from winter break, Mrs. DeAngelis's fourth graders were eager to share their vacation experiences. With minimal guidelines, they each wrote about a memorable day from their time off. Even without restrictions, the girls naturally incorporated strong introductions, vivid details, lots of great dialogue, and perfect conclusions. Some even sprinkled in similes, showcasing their creativity! After self-editing their work, they proudly presented their stories to the class. It was a wonderful way to reflect on their vacations while applying the writing skills they've developed throughout the year.

PARENTING WITH THE CPS APPROACH

Collaborative Problem Solving® (CPS) promotes the perspective that when kids exhibit challenging behaviors, they don't lack the will to behave well, they lack the skills to behave well. CPS is designed to cultivate skills like flexibility, frustration tolerance and problem solving, rather than motivating kids with rewards and punishments. This proven approach reduces challenging behaviors, equips children with necessary skills, and fosters positive relationships with the adults in their lives.
